Creation In The New Testament

Paul Addressing the Areopagus

Acts 17:22–31 (NKJV) Then Paul stood in the midst of the Areopagus and said, “Men of Athens, I perceive that in all things you are very religious; <sup>23</sup> for as I was passing through and considering the objects of your worship, I even found an altar with this inscription:

TO THE UNKNOWN GOD. Therefore, the One whom you worship without knowing, Him I proclaim to you: <sup>24</sup> God, who made the world and everything in it, since He is Lord of heaven and earth, does not dwell in temples made with hands. <sup>25</sup> Nor is He worshiped with men’s hands, as though He needed anything, since He gives to all life, breath, and all things. <sup>26</sup> And He has made from one blood every nation of men to dwell on all the face of the earth, and has determined their preappointed times and the boundaries of their dwellings, <sup>27</sup> so that they should seek the Lord, in the hope that they might grope for Him and find Him, though He is not far from each one of us;

<sup>28</sup> for in Him we live and move and have our being, as also some of your own poets have said, ‘For we are also His offspring.’ <sup>29</sup> Therefore, since we are the offspring of God, we ought not to think that the Divine Nature is like gold or silver or stone, something shaped by art and man’s devising. <sup>30</sup> Truly, these times of ignorance God overlooked, but now commands all men everywhere to repent, <sup>31</sup> because He has appointed a day on which He will judge the world in righteousness by the Man whom He has ordained. He has given assurance of this to all by raising Him from the dead.”

Like a vegetarian going to burger king saying there is no meat here.

In case you haven't heard the news, there is a new edition of the King James Bible that rewrites eight key verses that speak against homosexual practice. It's called the Queen James Bible (I kid you not), and the editors state that, "We edited those eight verses in a way that makes homophobic interpretations impossible."

Yes, you can now practice homosexuality and read your Bible without feeling condemned, although you still have to deal with the hundreds of verses affirming only heterosexual marriage and family (including one of the Ten Commandments that says, "Honor your father and mother" rather than, "Honor your father and father").

And then there are the thousands of verses that assume the importance of male-female gender distinctions, beginning with the first chapter of the Bible, which states, "God created man in His own image ... male and female He created them"(Gen. 1:27). But why quibble?

On the genuinely positive side, it is good see a hunger for the Scriptures in the LGBT community, and the editors boast that the Queen James Bible (QJB) "is the perfect Bible for ceremony, study, sermon, gift-giving or simply to put on display in the home or church."

On the totally negative side, to the extent professing LGBT Christians believe this translation to be accurate, they are deceiving themselves. And that would be tragic.

Take a moment and put yourself in the shoes of a Christian struggling with homosexuality. You want to follow Jesus and obey the Scriptures, but you find yourself attracted to the same sex, through no conscious choice of your own. You pray for God to change you and often cry yourself to sleep, only to wake up the next morning with the same unwanted attractions.

You wonder if God hates you and has singled you out for condemnation: God, why won't you change me and make me normal?

You hit rock bottom and are considering suicide when someone tells you that your homosexuality is a gift, that God made you this way, and that preachers are misinterpreting the Bible when they say you can't be a practicing homosexual and a Christian at the same time. Then they hand you your very own copy of the QJB, and voila, all those negative verses are gone.

Can you imagine how tempting it would be to embrace this new "revelation"?

So, Leviticus 18:22 doesn't say, "Thou shalt not lie with mankind, as with womankind: it is an abomination" (King James Version). It really says, "Thou shalt not lie with mankind as with womankind in the temple of Molech: it is an abomination" (QJB; Molech was a pagan idol).

And Paul didn't actually write that "men who practice homosexuality" will not inherit the kingdom of God (1 Cor. 6:9; ESV). What he really said was that neither "morally weak, nor promiscuous" people will inherit God's kingdom (QJB).

The problem, of course, is that the original Hebrew of Leviticus and the original Greek of 1 Corinthians do not say what the QJB says. Not a chance.

The editors have simply changed the Bible to fit their sexuality, opening up a Pandora's Box of potential mistranslation. It would be like changing "Thou shalt not commit adultery" into "Thou shalt not commit adultery unless you are deeply in love and willing to divorce your spouse to marry your adulterous partner."
